introduction

So what can be said about deans

fille

lesbienne

well dean introduces the feminine into Australian poetry—as he does in all of his poetry—dean is in touch with his anima that he can write poetry like the romantics with a “spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings” deans poem has the ability to convey feelings not ideas as Joseph Milson said of Tennyson deans poem conveys feelings not ideas thru poetry his poetry is not cerebral but flows from the spontaneous upwelling of emotion or feeling to appreciate dean one must recite the poems one must put the mind aside and feel with the soul then one will experience the sensualities not cerebral but from the soul the play of intimate emotions rippling over thy flesh deans

fille

lesbienne is like Moore said of Gustave Kahn full of sequences of sounds which evoke sequences of emotions thru rhythms and melodies of intonations like a cello heard thru pink mist within a perfumed garden where the words and sounds of deans

fille

lesbienne breaks thru like bright beams of summer moonlight
