Take gravity a fundamental of

physics

Take gravity we are told things fall because of gravity But science does not know what gravity is

https://answersingenesis.org/physics/gravity/

It would seem that this everyday gravity force should be one of the best understood concepts in science.

However, just the opposite is true. In many ways, gravity remains a profound mystery. Gravity provides a stunning example of the limits of current scientific knowledge.

Again

NASA says

<https://starchild.gsfc.nasa.gov/docs/StarChild/questions/question30.html>

what is gravity

"We don't really know. .... However, if we are to be honest, we do not know what gravity "is" in any fundamental way - we only know how it behaves."

Also

<https://physicsfestival.tamu.edu/richard-panek/>

"Nobody knows what gravity is, and just about nobody knows that nobody knows what gravity is"

Also

You don't have to think about gravity because you know it in your bones. But if you do think about it, you can begin to realize that what you "know" is, in fact, a series of illusions. These misunderstandings make the universe more navigable — physically and psychologically — and also leave it less mysterious and

<https://www.quora.com/Is-it-true-that-we-dont-really-know-what-gravity-is-scientists-included>

Is it true that we don't really know what gravity is, scientists included?

"Yes it is true"

No you say

Well lets take charge we are told there are electrons with negative charge and protons with positive charge But physicist don't know what a charge is

<https://www.education.vic.gov.au/school/teachers/teachingresources/discipline/science/continuum/Pages/electrostatics.aspx>

Scientists do not know exactly what charge is or how the two sorts of charge differ from one another; however each affects itself and its opposite form.

No you say

Well physicists talk a lot about matter particularly dark matter

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dark\_matter

Dark matter is a hypothetical form of matter thought to account for approximately 85% of the matter in the universe

<https://pursuit.unimelb.edu.au/articles/exploring-the-most-unknown-universe>

One leading hypothesis is that dark matter is made up of exotic particles that don't interact much with ordinary matter

<https://science.nasa.gov/astrophysics/focus-areas/what-is-dark-energy>

What Is Dark Matter?

By fitting a theoretical model of the composition of the universe to the combined set of cosmological observations, scientists have come up with the composition that we described above, ~68% dark energy, ~27% dark matter, ~5% normal matter. What is dark matter?

BUT* physicist don't even know what matter is

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Matter>

# Summary

It is fair to say that in physics, there is no broad consensus as to a general definition of matter, and the term

"matter" usually is used in conjunction with a specifying modifier.

No you say physics deals with forces

And what is a force

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/force>

In physics, a force is an influence that can change the motion of an object

and what is an influence to cause something to be changed:

sounds like circularity ie a force is an influence

But what is an influence nothing but a force

Try this circularity

<https://www.physicsclassroom.com/class/newtlaws/Lesson-2/The-Meaning-of-Force>

A force is a push or pull upon an object

And what is a push

<https://study.com/academy/lesson/push-pull-forces-lesson-for-kids-definition-examples.html>

A push is the force that moves an object away

Nothing but a force again
circularity

Thus we see science does a lot of talking about reality and the interaction between things based upon its foundations/fundamentals

But it cant even tell us what its foundations/fundamentals are

Thus it really is talking thru its ass
when it tell us what REALITY
*IS
